

Sceptikat

Does This Make Sense To You?

Scenario Fitting

by SCEPTIKAT

Part 1

Narrated by Andrew Mather

Sceptikat

Who am I?

In exile in the Swiss Alps, I have been watching in horror the UK government's actions around COVID-19.

Sceptikat

Sceptikat

Who am I?

I am a mother of 3, and work as a fund manager at a bank. They aren't keen on high profile employees at Swiss banks so I asked Andrew to narrate this on my behalf.

Sceptikat

Sceptikat

Who am I?

Sceptikat

And no, that's not me, just a royalty-free photo, but the frown is about right.

There's so much about Covid-19 that makes no sense, and I wanted to get my thoughts out, so I prepared a series of presentations.

What do I want to consider?

Thought experiment:

What would we expect to see from a government acting in the best interest of its people?

How do the actions of the UK government compare?

Breaking It Down

What areas should we look at?

1. Our immune system	8. The deaths
2. Protecting the vulnerable	9. Excess deaths
3. Treatment of patients	10. The cost of the lockdown
4. Cure	11. The “second wave”
5. The origins of the virus	12. Media manipulation
6. Hospital capacity	13. Contact tracing & testing
7. The models	14. Vaccine risk

1. Our Immune System

Action if acting in the interest of the population	UK government action
SUPPORT IMMUNE SYSTEM As the vulnerable group are those with weak immune systems, emphasise importance and means of maintaining a strong immune system	IGNORE/DAMAGE OUR IMMUNE SYSTEM No recommendations for boosting immune system; lockdown rules largely damaging to immune system and include petty measures that serve no purpose

Sceptikat

1. Our Immune System

Our Immune system is key to human health

1. Our Immune System

Ministers need to tell Britons that a healthy diet can boost the immune system and fend off the threat of the coronavirus, leading experts say

- The country's leading food policy experts have penned a letter to Whitehall
- Vital link between diet and immunity not being shared with public, they say
- Eating plenty of fruit and vegetables each day does not guarantee no infection
- But gives the body best chance of defeating it and not becoming severely sick

By CONNOR BOYD HEALTH REPORTER FOR MAILONLINE

PUBLISHED: 11:25 BST, 2 April 2020 | UPDATED: 15:54 BST, 2 April 2020

Ministers are being urged to launch a healthy eating campaign to inform people a good diet can boost the immune system and fend off the threat of coronavirus.

Britain's leading food policy experts have penned a letter to Whitehall saying this 'vital' information was not being shared with the public.

There is considerable evidence that eating habits influence the immune system, which is responsible for fighting off infection and disease.

Eating fruit and vegetables every day does not guarantee to stave off infection. But gives the body the best chance of beating it early and not becoming severely sick.

<https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-8179461/Government-urged-promote-healthy-eating-fight-against-threat-coronavirus.html>

1. Our Immune System

Pre covid medical advice was:

- Skip the antibacterial soaps.
- Reduce your use of chlorine-based cleaners.
- Start a garden.
- Consider getting a pet.
- Have closer interactions with people.

1. Our Immune System

1. Our Immune System

We knew from the start that those with weak immune systems are vulnerable to covid.

Yet we never instituted any measures to insure the general population maintains a healthy immune system,

On the contrary, the government advocates for lockdown measures that are damaging to the immune system.

With this, we grow the size of the “vulnerable group”.

Sceptikat

1. Our Immune System

This makes no sense.

Sceptikat

Just A Start

There's a lot that I want to share, for now
I just wanted to introduce myself and get the story going.

Sceptikat

Just A Start

I'm not totally hiding, just being discreet.
If you'd like to chat then reach out to me at sceptikat@peerlessreads.com
(which goes to both Andrew and myself (Kat)) or to chat with just myself you can reach me at kat@sceptikat.com